Abstract	This article aims to analyze the situational characteristics based on multiple hikikomori cases that have been prolonged and aging. I received 17 cases from nine social workers who cooperated with this survey. As The case study showed that , this may be a hidden regional issue due to the difficulty of keeping support away. Moreover, regarding the characteristics of the case, 1) the influence of social factors is particularly strong when the hikikomori is from middle to old age, 2) there is no desire for “in-home support”, 3) the hikikomori becomes apparent after the familys support is lost.
