Abstract	In Nagahara Gakuen, the name of Saga Junior College was changed to Nishikyushu University Junior College in 2009. In the same year Faculty of Children's Studies of Nishikyushu University was established on Kamizono campus, and the attached libraries were integrated between the university and the junior college. The office work systems of them were also reorganized. With these reorganiza□tions, we integrated the computer networks which had been used and managed separately from each other on Kamizono campus and Kanzaki campus up to that time. We increased the number of comput□ers and peripheral equipments on the integrated network in order to control them under the centralized management system. In this paper, we describe the details of the network integration and the extended network environment. Next, we suggest how the future improvement plan of peripheral equipments and computer environment should be in Nishikyushu University.
