Abstract	This paper is a report of my experience attending the Teledrama Annual International Conference, which was held for four days in November 2022. Teledrama is a new method of intervention in the actions and expressions of people at a distance using an online conference system to assist them. This paper describes the author's impressions of the hybrid session that was conducted as a leading-edge experiment, connecting both local and remote, as well as the continuation group that was held at the end of each day.
