Abstract	This study aims to clarify the role of school social workers (SSWrs) and the changes in their responsibilities through an analysis of case studies of SSWrs practice. We conducted a quantitative text analysis of case studies of SSWrs practices from 2011 to 2024, covering a period of 14 years. In the data analysis, two key perspectives were identified: the practical domains of SSWrs activity and the development of systems for utilizing SSWrs. Frequently used and characteristic terms were analyzed through correspondence analysis and co-occurrence network mapping. The analysis suggested the central role of SSWrs in coordinating complex support needs within the micro–meso domains. However, their evaluative role in the macro domain presents problems]. Overall, the findings illustrate how the role of SSWrs continues to evolve through processes of professional adjustment and generalization.
