Abstract	The "Children's Museum," a regional child rearing support program at our university, has been implemented since Academic Year 2009, when the Faculty of Children’s Studies was established, and it will be entering its for tenyears in AY 2018.The unifying theme is the "creation of children's culture"; the “Museum” provides an environment and play activities that include the elements required for children's growth, such as physical play, singing, storytelling, science, and activities that bring us into contact with the nature around us. All these can be experienced in a context of interpersonal connections. Twelve meetings were held in AY 2018, with a total of 123 households (246 people) participating. Fifty-twopercent of participants indicated "satisfied" for the activities they participated in, with 40% indicating "very satisfied".This paper reports the outcomes and future direction of program activities, based on the overview and program performance records of the AY 2018 "Children’s Museum," and the data from the follow-up questionnaire targeting parents, elementary school students and University students.
